An All Negro Village Eat More Mutton Miss Fanny Is Wrong Drys Too Hopeful

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1927, by Star Company

MOUND BAYOU, in Mississippi, is an "all negro" village, of 1,800 inhabitants, founded forty years ago by Isaiah E. Montgomery, a slave belonging to Jefferson Davis.

Mound Bayou celebrates its fortieth birthday today. It has a $100,000 brick public school, a $40,000 African Methodist Episcopal church, a $20,000 Baptist church, a Carnegie library, two private houses of brick, no jail, one policeman, few arrests. All officials, mayor, postmaster, Chamber of Commerce, are negroes.

Chicago's campaign to increase the consumption of beef is useful. Human beings need meat, as a time-saving proposition.

Millions of years of frost and rain grind up rock, earthworms prepare soil, grass grows, cows eat it, men eat the cows and get in half an hour the benefit of work done by the cows, worms and nature.

There ought to be another campaign to encourage the use of mutton. For all but the strongest men mutton is better food than beef. For children, especially, mutton is better, being a less "nervous" food.

Miss Fanny Hurst, like all geniuses, needs advertising and should have it. She says woman suffrage is a failure, women are indifferent to politics, slaves of vanity, the lipstick and the beauty parlor. "Sisters, we have not come through as a class, as a mass, or ..s a sex," says Miss Fanny.

She is mistaken. She notices the lipstick ladies because they are so red and conspicuous. She doesn't know that woman suffrage has caused politicians to ask, "What do the women want, what do the children need?"

Woman suffrage wasn't expected to do anything more.

Ardent "Drys" suggest that President Coolidge, an out-and-out, actual, not imitation, teetotaler, could stop bootlegging if he wanted to. An amusing suggestion.

Raymond G. Carroll reports scores of stills in the Black Hills, "hidden within five miles of President Coolidge's lodge." Hundreds of thousand of stills are scattered all over the United States, and one city, New York, has 20,000 or more speak-easies.

How could President Coolidge "clean up" that kind of bootleg situation?

Speaking of prohibition, Mr. Cyrus H. K. Curtis's young writer, Nunally Johnson, who goes to Europe on the Arabic, writes in Curtis's paper about "the two high church clergymen drinking brandies in the lounge every night and being excessively good fellows."

You can't change the habits of a people in a year or ten. If you do it in a hundred thousand years, you are doing well.

Hearst Says Mellon Is G. O. P.'s "Best"

By Universal Service.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—William Randolph Hearst thinks Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, is the strongest candidate the Republican Party could present for the next presidential nomination.

As for President Coolidge, Mr. Hearst says he "is popular and has made a good President," but his opinion regarding another term for Mr. Coolidge is "the people do not care to see one man hold the reins of the Chief Executive's office so long."

Mr. Hearst also thinks that the Democrats would have a good chance for success if they nominated Senator Reed of Missouri for President, but that "Al" Smith as a candidate would be fatal.

These views were expressed in a series of interviews at New Orleans, Charleston, Savannah and Jacksonville, while Mr. Hearst touched southern ports during the past week en route to his California ranch. He traveled on his yacht Oneida from New York to New Orleans.

Of Secretary Mellon, Hearst said:

"After all, when you come right down to it, the Republicans haven't but one thing to brag about, that is the Treasury Department."

Mr. Hearst pointed to what he called "remarkable handling of the debts," and lower taxes. Mr. Mellon was called by him the greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Hamilton.

"The only thing against Andrew Mellon," continued Mr. Hearst, "is

EFFORT OF ANTI-SALOON FORCES TO GET CONTROL OF COURTS REVEALED

By EDWIN J. CLAPP

(Copyright, 1927, by the Boston Evening American, Inc. All Rights Reserved. Reproduction in Whole or Part Prohibited.)

Perhaps the most startling material in the secret records of the Anti-Saloon League is in Wayne B. Wheeler's reports telling of his activity in influencing the appointment of Federal judges.

The minutes of the executive committee show many notable instances of Wheeler's work in this direction.

These secret records, which have been obtained by the Boston Evening American in co-operation with the New York American, and are being made public from day to day, uncover the amazing underground labyrinth through which this super organization attempts to reach and control the machinery of government having to do with prohibition enforcement, from the White House to Congress and to the Federal bench.

COL. LINDBERGH TO BE GUEST OF HUB JULY 22

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, youthful conqueror of the North Atlantic, will be the guest of the city of Boston on Friday, July 22.

This word was received today by Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols from the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aviation in New York City.

The Guggenheim Foundation is sponsoring an aerial tour which Colonel Lindbergh will start on July 20, and which will carry him into every State in the Union.

Milburn Kusterer, as official connected with the Guggenheim Foundation, will come to Boston on Saturday and will confer with Mayor Nichols over details of the Hub reception to Colonel Lindbergh.

Mayor Nichols had tentatively planned to hold a joint reception for Commander Richard E. Byrd, Colonel Lindbergh and Lieutenants Albert Hegenberger and Lester Maitland, all of whom had accepted his invitation to be guests of the city.

The sudden fixing of the date for Colonel Lindbergh's visit, however, has upset the Mayor's plans, and it is likely that individual receptions will be held for each of the fliers.

The first intimation of Lindy's visit to Boston came in a telegram to Mayor Nichols from Harry F. Guggenheim today.

"Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will undertake an air tour of the coun

JAIL TERRIFIES 'COUNT'

MONTE REGISTERS "HORROR" IN COURT

Drawing by Boston Evening American Staff Artist W. Kolliker in United States Court today shows the expression of terror which froze upon the face of "Count Monte" as Judge Lowell sentenced him to two years in jail for impersonating a Federal officer.

MONTE CHOOSES PRISON IN U. S. TO EXILE 'HOME'

Rather than reveal his birthplace and be deported from the United States, "Count" Paul Monte of Winthrop, "soldier of fortune," whose escapades have kept him in the limelight and trouble for 15 pleaded guilty of impersinating a Federal officer and obtaining money under false pretenses. He was immediately sentenced to two years in Plymouth jail by Judge Lowell.

This startling twist to the trial, which revealed that "Count" Monte is a man without a country, came during the second day of the trial. For two years Assistant District Attorney John W. Schenck has had deportation papers ready for "Count" Monte, but has been unable to learn the country in which Monte was born. Rumania, Russia, Australia and Canada all disclaimed be-

100 HURLED INTO LAKE ALONG WITH EX-CHAMP AS WHARF COLLAPSES

(Special to the Boston American.)

Hague, Lake George, N. Y., July 12.—Jack Dempsey was the central figure in a near tragedy here today when the flooring of the public wharf collapsed under the weight of a crowd that rushed to greet the former heavyweight champion as he alighted from a steamer that carried him up the lake from the village of Lake George.

Dempsey, his attendants and more than 100 others dropped into the water, and for a few moments panic prevailed.

The ex-champion, carrying a woman in his arms, finally emerged from the wreckage of the wharf and made his way to shore, while the others caught in the accident scrambled to safety.

Dempsey and his trainers came here today to start the Lake George four-mile Marathon race. The fighter and his party motored from the Dempsey training camp at Saratoga to the vilage of Lake George, where they boarded the steamer for this place.

A crowd of more than 5,000 spectators was lined on the shore to

BEACH DEATH SUSPECT RETURNED FOR GRILLING

George O. Taylor, tramp barber and tailor, suspect in the murder of Stella Kale at Salisbury Beach, was started back to Salisbury today from Montpelier, Vt., in custody of State Detective Richard Griffin and Chief of Police Sydney Smith and Patrolman Clark of Salisbury.

The barber suspect, who has admitted his identity continued to assert his innocence.

He will be grilled at length on all his movements in the past two months when he arrives at the beach town where the body of Stella Kale was found on June 6.

One grilling was given Taylor today, but he steadfastly maintained his innocence of any killing and asserted that on the murder date he was intoxicated at Hampton Beach.

According to Officer Griffin who questioned Taylor in the Washington County Jail where was was locked up after being in the hands of Hyde Park police for six days as a vagrant, if Taylor had been able

JUDGE THAYER APPEARS BEFORE SACCO PROBERS

A gray, little man, so unassuming in appearance that no one said the slightest attention to him, walked unescorted into the office of Governor Fuller at the State House today.

Immediately the judge, who is one of the central figures in the international Sacco-Vanzetti case, was conducted to the council chamber, where the three members of the Governor's committee were in session.

It was Judge Thayer who pre-

IRELAND WILL AVENGE O'HIGGINS BY "WIPING OUT TERRORISM"

COSGRAVE IN TRIBUTE TO SLAIN

Dublin, Ireland, July 12 (A.P.).—President Cosgrave, delivering a panegyric on Kevin O'Higgins in the Dail today declared that the assassination of the vice-president of the Free State Council on Sunday was the "fruit of a steady persistent attack against the State."

Mr. Cosgrave recounted all of the services of Mr. O'Higgins since he entered public life ten years ago and then concluded:

"This crime has not been committed by private individuals against Kevin O'Higgins. It was the fruit of a steady, persistent attack against the state and its fundamental institutions. On the heads of those who have devoted themselves to that attack lies the blood guilt.

"We will meet this form of terrorism as we have met other forms of terrorism and we shall not falter until every vestige of it is wiped from the land."

Thomas Johnson, secretary of the Irish Labor party and leader of the opposition in Dail, declared that O'Higgins had come to be regarded with personal affection as gentle, just and resolute.

None could doubt, he said, that his murder was intended as a blow to the new state.

Count Plunkett's Son Is Held in O'Higgins' Death

Dublin, Ireland, July 12.—While all Ireland today joined in mourning for Kevin O'Higgins, slain Vice-President of the Free State Council, George Plunkett, son of Count Plunkett, was held by the court, charged with conspiring to murder the official.

Nine other young men also were held in connection with the case. All protested against their arrest as being unjust.

The body of the assassinated Free State leader lies in state in the Mansion House pending the funeral.

Long lines of reverent sympathizers today passed before the bier of O'Higgins while the police continued their efforts to capture the assassins.

The young men taken into custody are held under formal charges of having plotted to slay O'Higgins and also with having carried the plot into fact.

The automobile from which the fatal bullets were fired has been found, but it gives no positive clue as to the identity of the killers.

Ireland, although still greatly aroused over the assassination, remains calm, and anti-Republican sentiment, which might have led to disorders, has been eased, by the statement issued by Eamon De Valera condemning the murder and denying that the Republican organization fostered it.

The scene at Mansion House, when the coffin was placed in the position, was very impressive. The hearse was saluted, on its arrival at Mansion House, by parties of troops who presented arms, and by the civic guards, who stood at attention.

Ten police superintendents bore the coffin into the building, and deposited it on the catafalque. General O'Duffy, chief commissioner of the Civic Guards, lit the six tall candles in the sombrely draped and dim chamber, placing three at each side of the coffin. At the head of the coffin stood a large crucifix.

SAYS LEE MADE THREATS TO AXE VICTIM

New York, July 12 (I.N.S.).—Pleading not guilty when arraigned in Homicide Court in Brooklyn today on murder charges growing out of the axe slayings of Sarah Elizabeth Brownell, 70, a spinster, and Mrs. Selma Larsen Bennett, 58, Ludwig Halversen Lee, 38, was held without bail for a further hearing Friday.

Evidence embracing an allegation that Lee had threatened death to Miss Brownell was offered today to police.

WOMAN GIVES EVIDENCE.

The information was given by Mrs. Anna Palas, former tenant of the murder house, which Mrs. Brownell conducted as a boarding establishment. Mrs. Palas, who said she had known the murdered woman for several years, told the authorities that on one occasion Mrs. Brownell had expressed fear that Lee would kill her, and that he had made threats against her life.

More evidence of Brooklyn's axe murders were believed to have been found today. A bundle of bones wrapped in a blood-stained paper was picked up in Prospect Park by a patrolman not far from the Brownell house.

to spell "Caribou," he might never had acknowledged his identity as Taylor the barber.

All questioning in an endeavor to draw this admission had been in vain until finally, the State officer produced a copy of a page from a Belfast, Me., hotel register.

On the copy appeared the name and address "George Good, Caribou." There was no "i" in the "Caribou," there is no such Maine community as "Caribou," and the searching officers had established that the man registered some time ago at the Belfast hotel was also a barber known as Taylor and was the man they were after.

When Taylor maintained sturdily that his name was not Taylor and never had been, State Officer Griffin asked him to write the name, "George Good."

Taylor wrote, and the officer, comparing the signatures, felt that he was moving in the right lane.

"Now write Caribou like Caribou, Maine," the officer directed.

"How do you spell Caribou?" Taylor asked.

"Never mind the spelling; you just write it," Griffin suggested.

So Taylor wrote—and he spelled the town "Caribou," just as it was spelled on the hotel register.

When Griffin confronted him with the similarity in writings and the repeated error, his subject finally looked at the ceiling and admitted that "sometimes I'm called Taylor."

Both Officer Griffin and State Detective Brown of Vermont declared today that the man detained answers Taylor's description in practically all regards excepting the mustache.

His upper lip was clothed a bit more fully than had been his wont, the officer said, and instead of the "Charlie Chaplin mustache" he had let it grow until it had attained full and normal mustache proportions.

Griffin said Taylor admitted having worked in Boston about three years ago as a presser for a tailor.

No trouble was anticipated in getting him back to Salisbury Beach and the murder scene, Taylor declaring that he would go because Officer Griffin had treated him "like a brother."

ing his birthplace. Monte himself has so far refused to tell.

BATTLE OF WITS.

Assistant District Attorney John V. Spalding, who has been prosecuting the case in which Monte pleaded guilty to representing himself as a Federal officer to James and Irving Field of Mattapan in the watch they had set upon their wives, bent every effort in his cross-examination to get the defendant to reveal his birthplace.

The battle of wits between the "Count" and the prosecutor continued until the forenoon recess, when, after a consultation with his counsel, Attorney Finkelstein, Monte decided to plead guilty.

District Attorney Spalding, in addressing the court, declared Monte, during 15 years in this country, had four wives in succession, none of whom he had divorced; that he had been sentenced to three years in Canada for larceny; that he is still on probation from a six months sentence for wife desertion, and that his stationery still bears the title of "Count."

WIFE IS ANGRY.

The morning session had been taken up with Monte on the stand giving a thumbnail sketch of his life career in answer to questions by Attorney Finkelstein. He related of how he had received $200,000 in cash two years ago for an automobile motor invention.

Monte worked in so many incidents of his career that Judge Lowell was forced to warn him to stick to the case being heard.

The sudden ending of the case was a disappointment to Mrs. Monte, who has been following the trial closely and she sharply criticized Attorney Finkelstein for allowing him to plead guilty.

TWO BOYS SAVE LIVES OF FOUR

Concord, N. H., July 12 (A.P.).—Mrs. E. Robinson of Haverhill, Mass., and Mrs. Sarah Segal of Boston, together with two little girls, were saved from drowning in the Contoocook River by two boys, Mrs. Robinson with her daughter, aged four, was bathing when she stepped into a hole. Mrs. Segal, sitting in an auto nearby and clad in a bathing suit and bathrobe, went to her assistance, accompanied by her seven-year-old daughter.

The four got beyond their depth when Maurice Verstanding, also of Boston, and Burton Robinson, a son of Mrs. Robinson, brought them to shore. The two boys are aged 12 and 10 respectively.

ELOPING GIRL ELUDES 'DAD' IN 3 STATES

Far, far from the moonlit balcony, a West Roxbury Romeo and a Brighton Juliet were rolling today on rubber, as befits the modern romance, while an angry father sped in another motor somewhere along the back route.

Faster than did lovers move in fair Verona are Eleonor Laham of No. 18 Radnor road, Brighton, and George Laham of Dent street, West Roxbury, were spinning back the black ribbons of roads traversing three States, in romantic flight from the girl's parent.

Abraham Laham, wealthy Boston lace merchant, wants his daughter back with him before she becomes a member of household he has declared he hates—just as Capulet hated the House of Montague and Montague the House of Capulet in the ancient play.

"Two households not alike in dignity"

NOT RELATED.

But the Laham households, although bearing the same name, are not related, excepting that the son of one loves the daughter of the other and that love is reciprocated.

Only sixteen years old is each of the fleeing lovers, whose family enmity was put aside by them in favor of romance.

Before he started on his angry chase for the two sweethearts he has not yet caught, Eleanor's father declared bitterly that the fathes of the West Roxbury Romeo is responsible for the alliance between the youngsters and the elopement.

SPURNED ENGAGEMENT

And the Brighton father's wrath was not appeased at all by the fact that in giving her heart to her West Roxbury lover, Eleanor spurned a marriage arrangement made for her years ago by her parents with a young law student.

According to the family of Eleanor she departed her home last Thursday with $5,000 worth of jewelry, one article being an $1,800 diamond ring given by her father as a present. Also, she took all her best clothing.

The chase of the father led him first to New York, then to Waterbury, Ct., later to Providence and Worcester—and still "Romeo and Juliet of Boston" outdistanced the angry parent.

It was a "tour d'amour," but father had only anger for his companion.

Young Laham (male) is an insurance agent, according to the feminine Laham family, and he met the girl while attempting to sell her dad insurance.

DIFFER ON MISSING GIRL

Mrs. Idella Smith — Mrs. William T. Lincoln

Mrs. Idella Smith of Cambridge believes her sister, Gladys Lincoln, 16-year-old Norton girl, missing since Saturday night, is "on a lark" with her cousin, Elliott Drew of North Norton. Mrs. William T. Lincoln believes her daughter is the victim of foul play.

Gloucester, July 12.—The trail of Gladys Lincoln, the mysteriously missing Norton girl, shifted to this city today as a result of the report made to police headquarters by Motorcycle Officer George O'Malley who, in reading the Boston Evening American, announced that he was certain that a couple he had stopped in an automobile were none other than Miss Lincoln and her cousin, Eliot Drew.

In fact, the name on the automobile license and registration shown to the officer by the young man bore the name of Eliot Drew of North Easton.

Officer O'Malley met the couple in an automobile on Thatcher road. The young man asked the way to New York. In the back seat was a girl, of clothing apparently new, and who appeared as if she did not want to be seen. So nervous was the young man that O'Malley asked to see his papers. He made note of the name, and then, after giving directions for the way to New York allowed the machine to go on.

O'Malley did not know of the missing Lincoln girl at the time, but upon reading the paper recognized from the description the girl he had seen in the rear seat of the auto but a few hours before. By that time, however, the automobile and its occupants had gone.

MAYOR TO SEND BACK $650,000 FIRE ORDER

Despite defeat at the first attempt, Mayor Nichols will send his $650,000 loan order for a new Central fire station right back to the City Council at its next meeting, January 25, he announced today.

The Mayor made his declaration in connection with a statement to the effect that, regardless of Councilor McGrath's call for dismissal of Warren F. Freeman, municipal real estate expert, Freeman will remain with the city.

One of the points brought up against Freeman in the squabble was that he is one-half owner of the old Revere House site in Bowdoin square whose purchase for $300,000 is contemplated by the city.

Mayor Nichols' loan order was defeated yesterday in Council by a vote of 12 to 8. The necessary vote for passage is 13 "Yeas."

DAWN MEANS LIFE FOR FISHERMAN LOST AT SEA

Dawn has omens of meaning for Robert Fitzgerald of Stoneham, rescued from a watery grave on Western Bank fishing grounds and landed at the Fish Pier today.

He was reported lost in a dory from the schooner J. M. Marshall when Captain Gomes arrived at Fish Pier Friday.

Today the schooner Dawn, Captain John Atwood, brought Fitzgerald back to the fold. He picked him up at dawn Wednesday when frantic waving attracted the attention of the Dawn's dawn lookout. In telling of his experience it dawned on him that he had left his ship at dawn the previous day to set trawls.

HEROIC COLLIE DIES IN FIRE

Brockton, July 12.—A collie laid down his life in smoke and fire today in trying to save his mistress, who had safely escaped the flame.

The dog, pet of Mrs. Walter O. Sweet, was un-Ble to find her in the small crowd watching the fire sweep through the house at No. 64 Prospect street, from which the Sweets, together with eleven other persons, had fled.

Tearing himself free from his master's hand, the collie darted back into the house and disappeared. But his mistress was safe at a neighbor's house.

The fire, starting from unknown origin, caused damage estimated at $5,000. Sweet was awakened by the crackling of the flames and, with his wife, gave the alarm to other occupants, the family of Arthur E. Davey on the first floor and the family of Earl Watson on the second floor.

RUSSIA TO KILL 'SAVIOR OF RICH U. S. PURSES'

Moscow, July 12 (A.P.)—After a trial in which the relations between the United States and Soviet Russia were frequently mentioned, Sergius Drujelovsky was sentenced to death today on the charge of espionage and the fabrication of forged documents against Soviet Russia.

Prosecutor Katanyan described the prisoner as the "savior of the American bourgeois pockets because he defeated the movement headed by Senator Borah for recognition of the Soviet Union at a moment of Borah's greatest influence."

The prosecutor said Drujelovsky, among other things, had forged in credit markets documents purporting to show Communist international activities in the United States, which he declared turned American sentiment against the Soviet Union thereby causing untold damage and loss of prestige.

Airplane Hunts for Burglar Suspects In Maine Swamp

Old Orchard, Me., July 12 (A.P.)—An airplane was employed by the police today in an attempt to locate two men hiding in a swamp who are suspected of breaking in to St. Mary's church in Biddeford this morning. One of the men escaped from the church by diving through the glass of a closed window. Police bullets failed to stop him.

The police say they believe the wanted man may have had a hand in the burglaries at the Ocean Park Hotel and at the Curtis Hotel yesterday.

ARLINGTON MAN JUST MISSES BEING EXILE

Federal agents swooped down today on the Dollar liner President Harrison when she docked at the army base and confiscated a considerable quantity of liquor which had been concealed about the vessel.

Customs Inspector Thomas R. Knudson found one cache of the contraband under the forepeak. The ship is making her eleventh voyage around the world.

An 82-year-old woman traveler and a six-months-old baby were fellow passengers on the steamship. The active, though venerable voyager, is Mrs. Joseph Lanman, descendant of Mayflower folk, returning from Colombo, Ceylon.

William Livingston Gordon, six months-old American citizen seeing America for the first time, eased his welcome from a crib. William was born in Alexandria, Egypt, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gordon of Youngstown, O.

To Mr. and Mrs. George E. Cooper of No. 281 Park avenue, Arlington Heights, with their 3-year-old daughter, Margaret, joy of landing was turned to gloom when the family was threatened with separation by the stern immigration laws. Cooper was found to be without proper landing papers and spent an unpleasant hour until Immigration Inspector Ambrose relieved the situation through a series of telephone calls. They were visiting Mrs. Cooper's mother at Yorkshire, Eng.

1,600 CASES THROWN OUT BY COURT IN QUINCY

More than 1,600 civil cases were removed from the docket in Quincy District Court today, being dismissed by Judge McAnarney because of lack of action for a period of two years or more.

It was the most extensive housecleaning in the history of the court. More than 100 other old cases were kept active by special motions brought by the interested parties. The cases dismissed were originally entered between January 1, 1915, and January 1, 1925.

2 ARRAIGNED IN MURDER OF POLICEMAN

Lester Perry, brothers of Ernest, is being sought in New York city through a clue obtained from Collins' prayerbook which, taken by the authorities from a Revere lodging house, was found to contain a New York address.

Calm and self-possessed, Ernest Perry and Lanormanda stood handcuffed together in the prisoners' dock in Charlestown court and, after hearing the serious charge read to them by Clerk Mark Smith, answered in well controlled voices:

"Not guilty."

Later, when police asked a continuance in order that witnesses could be rounded up, both youths spoke up clearly and distinctly and told Judge Charles S. Sullivan that they wanted a hearing immediately.

Both Ernest Perry and Lanormanda are on parole from Concord Reformatory, Perry's parole expiring in 1929 and Lanormanda's in November of this year. Perry was serving time for robbery and Lanormanda for breaking and entering.

A crowd that filled the courtroom and overflowed into the corridors followed into court in the wake of the two youths who were brought to Charlestown by Inspectors Lyons and Driscoll, with Inspectors Donnessey and Burke as an extra guard.

Sergeant William Macbeth of Charlestown police division was the complaining officer and he briefly stated the facts surrounding the murder of Patrolman MacInnes to Judge Sullivan. MacInnes was shot to death while making an arrest of two youths behind a Charlestown laundry on Sunday, July 3.

A continuance of ten days was asked by Macbeth and Inspector Donnessey. Judge Sullivan explained the situation to the prisoners who said they were ready then.

Judge Sullivan said that the government had sufficient reason to have the continuance granted and he set July 22 as the date for the continued hearing.

ASKED HIGH BAIL.

"What bail do you suggest?" the judge asked of Inspector Donnessey, and the headquarters homicide expert asked that it be set as high as possible. The amount of $20,000 for each defendant was then fixed by Judge Sullivan.

They were then taken to Charles street jail. Ernest Perry's address in the complaint was given as School street, Charlestown, and Lanormanda's as Chelsea street, Everett.

Both have records, according to the probation officer of the Charlestown court, who cited the following for Lanormanda: 1916, larceny, sent to Middlesex Training School, Chelmsford; 1919, larceny, made restitution, case filed; 1920, larceny, placed on probation; 1923, breaking and entering, made restitution, given probation; unlawful appropriation, case filed; having burglar's tools, sent to Shirley Industrial School.

RECORD OF PERRY.

There were several other cases, the final disposition of which was doubtful, and there were two complaints on which he was found not guilty. Ernest Perry's record was cited as containing several complaints of larceny, with sentences to Shirley Industrial School and Concord Reformatory.

Police disclosed that Ernest Perry, when arrested, had $168 and two watches, one gold and the other silver, in his pockets.

The pair were previously grilled and, according to the police, they maintained their innocence. Later, however, Inspector Harry Pierce and an official stenographer, Augustus Gill, made a visit to the cell of one of them. The police refused to reveal whether or not important information was obtained.

VIEWS CORPSE, CONFESSES

Portland, Me., June 12 (A.P.)—"That's enough! That's enough!" James P. Kelley, charged with the murder of Mrs. Lillian Woodsum Casey, young divorced wife of Martin Casey, exclaimed according to police, after looking twice at his dead sweetheart in a hospital morgue today a few hours after he had surrendered.

"If I admit manslaughter, that will take care of everybody," he was alleged, by Inspector Albert M. Thomsen, to have volunteered during questioning by the police after he had been placed in a cell.

He was said to have discussed with officers the difference between murder and manslaughter, and asked the sentence for manslaughter. Inspector Thomsen said Kelley admitted he was with Mrs. Casey last night and went to the house on Clark street in which she was stabbed through the heart with a jackknife.

"After that I lost my head and don't know what happened," the inspector credited Kelley with telling him. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

Kelley was sentenced to 15 days in jail for attacking the woman's former husband on July 15, 1924, but the case was dropped after he appealed.

DEMANDS RIGHT TO TAKE DOCTOR'S EXAMINATION

George Farantos, for three years a student at the Middlesex College of Medicine and Surgery and who in 1924 received a degree of doctor of medicine from the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons, today filed a petition before the Supreme Court of Massachusetts asking for a writ of mandamus to compel the board of registration in medicine of the State to examine him for admission to practice in the State.

Farantos claims that recently he applied for permission to take the examination for registered physician and that such permission was denied him by the State authorities.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

MISS MARJORIE MORRILL

She is one of the local tennis players contending at the Agawam Hunt Club courts this week. Both State and New England titles are being fought for.

SO FAR AS THE LOCAL TENNIS WORLD IS CONCERNED ALL its stars (those that already shine and those that are rising) are down at the Agawam Hunt Club, battling through the week for State and New England titles. Boston young women adept with the racquet have packed their most up-to-the-moment tennis togs and hied to the smart club and its splendid courts, of which Providence society is so justly proud.

OF COURSE THE FOUR PALFREY sisters are there—the Misses Sarah, Lee, Mianne and Polly, Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer, Miss Isabella Lee Turnford, Mrs. William Endicott, Mrs. George Wightman, Mrs. Roger Griswold, and Mrs. Dallas Corbiere were present. Likewise Miss Virginia Rice, Miss Dorothy Blodgett, Miss Harriet Royce, Miss Margaret Blake and Miss Marjorie Morrill. It really seemed as though "everyone" known to fame among Miss Dorothy Blodgett there was an interested group which included that handsome young woman, Miss Harriet Royce. Her frock and hat of golden yellow matched the sunlight in real but were far cooler than were old Sol's rays!

AS TO THE LITHE YOUNG players, they have acquired a most enviable coat of tan, thanks to the sleeveless one-piece frocks they elect for court wear. A la Helen Wills. Whatever pace that brilliant young Westerner sets on the courts is equalled by her flair for the correct accoutrement. Tennis fem-finity, to a girl, has adopted the self same "sun visor" and pleated frock the gifted Helen has made a tennis mode from California to the Riviera.

THE AGAWAM HUNT IS PLANning all sorts of evening festivities for the visiting tennis players. Tainted young girls will doff the severe tennis rigs for gossamer chiffons and tomorrow evening dance at the Hunt Club—perhaps the largest solitication of the week. Sunday evening at the Club was the "drawing" and brought together peactically the entire visiting contingent.

MISS ISABELLA MUMFORD IS putting up at the Biltmore, the same hosteiry that is the temporary abiding place of Miss "Midge" Morrill, Miss Margaret Blake, Mrs Roger Griswold, Mrs. George Wightman, Miss Virginia Rice and Miss Dorothy Blodgett. Some of the matrons who have registered at the Warwick Country Club for the tennis stay are Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer, Mrs. William Endicott, Mrs. Godfrey and Mrs. Corbiere. With this galaxy at Agawam certainly the present centre of the tennis world is at that smart club.

NORTH SHORE PERSONAGES enrolled themselves with such dispatch for the Stillington subscription musicales that there is, so I hear, a "waiting list." While all goes to prove that Leslie Buswell orchestrator of the "Musicales" idea, proclaimed extremely when he said the North Shore set would welcome with open arms fine music served up as part of its Summer social fare. The second musicale is this evening, at Stillington High Glencester, and practically the entire "Who's Who" will take its way through the cinder to passe with in the handsome hall.

MILLION GREET PACIFIC FLIERS

San Francisco, July 11 (U.S.A.)—One million residents of San Francisco and Oakland welcomed handsome Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, first men to fly to Hawaii.

The liner Maui, bearing the adventurous fliers, passed through Golden Gate in the early morning hours—just two weeks to the hour from the starting time of the non-stop flight to Honolulu.

Arrival of the Maui in San Francisco Bay sent a dozen army planes howling into the sky, flying in squadron formation. The planes hovered protectingly over the big liner as it docked.

A feature of the welcome was a ride for guests up Market street to the Civic Center, where the fliers were paid full municipal honors.

COOLIDGE GETS PONY EXPRESS

Rapid City, S. D., July 12 (A.P.)—All other issues were cast aside at the Summer White House today while Wyoming, reviving the pony express of wildwest times, had the spotlight.

A group of its citizens, headed by Senator Kendrick and Gov. Emerson were invited by President Coolidge to luncheon and to take part in the final ceremony at the 270-mile ride in the saddle by which an invitation was sent to President and Mrs. Coolidge to visit the State.

The last of the twenty-seven riders, Dakota Clyde Jones, in charge of the Custer Park Hackers, was escorted at the game lodge shortly after noon astride a horse named Calvin Coolidge, and the presentation of the buckskin roll containing the message was planned on the front lawn of the Summer White House.

The first rider left Cheyenne yesterday morning, on through the day went the buckskin rus, up through Wyoming, and across a corner of Nebraska. Overhead, as the rider went on into the night with his letter an airplane was dodging clouds. It might have been the postal service's pilot carrying the overnight mail from Chicago to the coast.

The plane and the horseman symbolized the progress of half a century.

NICHOLS VETOES $225,000 WEST END PLAYGROUND

Mayor Nichols today returned without approval a council order providing an appropriation of $225,000 for purchasing land for playground purposes in the West End. The loan order was introduced by Councillor John I. Fitzgerald. In his veto message the mayor outlined the number of council orders before him from almost every section of the city for playgrounds, which he says, if given favorable consideration an immediate investment of about $3,500,000 would be required.

The mayor appointed the following committee to study the needs of playgrounds: William P. Long, Charles A. Coolidge, James E. McConnell, Francis D. Donoghue, Mrs. Ezy Fetheiman, Stephen W. Sleeper and R. C. Bruce Wetmore.

JUDGE THAYER IS HEARD IN SACCO CASE

sided at the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti. It was Judge Thayer who denied the men a new trial and whose denial of this trial was upheld by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

UNMOVED BY THREATS.

It was the same Judge Thayer who sentenced the men to die in the electric chair at Charlestown prison the week of July 10, of this year, and which sentence resulted in Governor Fuller granting a reprieve to the doomed radicals until the week of August 1.

Threats against the life of Judge Thayer have been made from all parts of the globe since the case of Sacco and Vanzetti reached international proportions, years ago, but the judge was unattended as he made his way to the council room at the State House today.

For more than an hour Judge Thayer was closeted with the three men Governor Fuller has designated to aid him probing the case.

The judge was tired and worn when he left the council chamber.

"Of course, I have nothing to say," he declared. "That is up to the men who questioned me."

Previous to the appearance of Judge Thayer before the investigating committee Professor James P. Richardson of the faculty of Dartmouth College appeared and told how Judge Thayer had made prejudicial remarks concerning the two radicals while he and the judge were on the golf course at Hanover, N. H.

While Professor Richardson was being examined there was also present before the committee William G. Thompson, chief counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, and his assistant, Herbert Ehrmann. Assistant District Attorney Dudley P. Ranney of Norfolk County, who prosecuted Sacco and Vanzetti, was also present.

HEARD IN PRIVATE.

A few minutes after Judge Thayer was escorted into the committee room Attorneys Thompson and Ehrmann made their exit, indicating that the committee wished to question the jurist in private.

Albert H. Hamilton, firearms expert from Auburn, N. Y., who was one of the principal figures in the vain effort to secure a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti, was closeted with Governor Fuller for almost an hour.

CALLED IN PROBE

Judge Webster Thayer, Sacco-Vanzetti trial jurist, on way to State House today to testify before Governor's committee probing facts in the famous case.

U.S. STILL BALKS AT BRITAIN'S CRUISER PLAN

Rapid City, S. D., July 12 (I.N.S.) Despite the apparent impasse which the Geneva naval conference has reached, President Coolidge is still optimistic about success. The cruiser problem particularly, he believes, will be solved after due deliberation. In other directions the executive regards the conference as already having made some progress toward a definite limitation of auxiliary fighting craft.

Geneva, Switzerland, July 12 (A.P.)—"We are in a bunker; nothing but a niblick can save us," was the golfing metaphor employed today by a Japanese member of the committee which has been charged with going over the new British proposals for cruiser limitation now before the three power naval conference.

This committee worked well into the night trying to approach the problem from some new angle, but finally separated agreeing to have another try today.

While finding a number of conciliatory suggestions in the British proposals, the Americans doubt whether they will really be efficacious in the direction of effective limitation if they only extend to 1931, as suggested.

Such a plan, the Americans hold, entails the possibility that the "ld may be off" after 1931 for a renewed race in cruiser construction.

The British plan embodies acceptance of the American maximum total of 400,000 tons for cruisers, provided the United States and Great Britain could agree to limit the number of 18,000 ton cruisers to about ten. The British hold that if only a small part of the tonnage were used for larger cruisers, it would be possible for Great Britain to have enough left for the fleet of small cruisers which she contends is necessary, because of the far flung nature of the empire.

The Japanese are chary of the promise that 400,000 tons would be the total figure for each of the two five-five powers. This would bring the Japanese three plus a fraction to considerably more than desired in these days when stringent economy is the watchword at Tokyo.

Caddies in Waltham Go on Strike for Higher Pay

As a result of a strike of nearly two-score caddies at the Waltham Country Club at noon today every golfer had to carry his own bag. The thermometer at the time registered in the near 90's and was still going up.

The caddies, who are getting 75 cents a round, asked for $1 and were refused. They formed a union with William Bogel as president and John Brett as vice-president.

ORANGEMEN IN TWO PARADES TO PICNICS

Boston's Orangemen, split in two rival factions by a battle that has been waging in the national organization, met in bloodless warfare in Copley square today.

Today is the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, and loyal Orangemen throughout the world hail the day as one to be given over to festival and rejoicing.

For years past the Orangemen have gathered in Copley square and have marched in order to South Station to board their picnic trains. This year, as a result of the split in the organization, each faction made application for the same parade route. The Boston street commissioners, sensing the delicate situation, assigned different routes to the two bodies.

The faction of Orangemen headed by Murdock McKillop assembled on the steps of the Boston Public Library at 9 a. m. The Royal Black Knights and a Scotch kiltie band were on hand to furnish the color and music for the march to South Station.

Across the square, on the steps of Trinity Church, the rival faction assembled. With this group was the Walter Scott bagpipe drum corps with Miss Gladys F. Graham of Concord Junction as drum major.

Members of the rival camps glared at each other, but that was all.

FEAR 300 DEAD IN PALESTINE EARTHQUAKE

Cairo, Egypt, June 12 (A.P.)—An eye-witness who arrived here today by airplane from Transjordania, said that 300 persons are believed to have been killed in yesterday's earthquake in Palestine.

The death list in the Jerusalem district was placed at 26 and the injured at 26. Reports received from outlying places raised the known death roll to 56 and the injured to more than 300.

The old city of Jerusalem today had the appearance of having passed through a military siege as the result of the quake.

The streets were filled with crowds, the people hesitating to enter the houses in fear of a recurrence of the earthquake and possible collapse caused by a weakening of the foundations. As the hours passed, a calm atmosphere was returning to the "City of Peace."

The Allenby bridge was damaged at both ends. The Greek Catholic Church of the Holy Sepulchre has been declared unsafe because of the cracks in the walls. The roof of the chemical laboratory of the Hebrew University on the Mount of Olives collapsed.

The government house, located on the Mount of Olives, was badly damaged. The private rooms of the high commissioner, Lord Plumer, and Lady Plumer, who are now on vacation in England, were wrecked.

Improved Airport Will Be Boon, Says Coonley

Howard Coonley, nationally known manufacturer and former president of the Chamber of Commerce, in supporting the drive for a Bigger, Better and Busier Boston airport, writes:

"Boston is justified in taking a keen and jealous interest in this problem of airport development, for the future of aviation holds forth possibilities of great industrial and commercial importance. . . . Boston can ill afford not to."

By HOWARD COONLEY.
Former President of Boston Chamber of Commerce and Director of Colonial Air Transport, Inc.

Howard Coonley

Any undertaking in business, commercial or scientific development must move steadily forward if it is to survive. It cannot stand still; if there is no progress, retrogression is inevitable. Particularly is this true of any enterprise that is still in the pioneer stage.

Aviation, despite its remarkable development in the last decade, must be regarded as yet scarcely out of its swaddling clothes.

Those communities which expect to gain the greatest benefits from the conquest of the air in the years ahead must be alive to their opportunities and neglect no reasonable and practical step that will serve to attract the service which aviation now has to offer.

Boston was among the first great cities to build an airport and facilitate the application of the airplane to the needs of commerce and industry. But the step which Boston took a few years ago was but the initial move. It served to place the city definitely on the airplane map.

ACTION IMPERATIVE

Now further action is imperative, of broader scope than before, so that Boston may maintain her place as a pioneer in the cause of this great modern science.

Aviation development is coming faster than many of us realize. The air express for passenger traffic is a reality now—still something of a novelty to most people, it is true, but destined to become a commonplace service, as much taken for granted as the railway express is now.

Likewise, air express service for the carrying of parcels and freight is coming fast. That may be the next outstanding development in air traffic. Regular service between New York and Boston will be followed by daily, perhaps sometimes even hourly, departures of cargo-carrying planes from Boston to the principal cities of the West and Canada.

The Boston-New York air mail service was initiated to bring Boston into the picture. It was not intended to provide a great income to the promoters, or to serve an immediately urgent need, except as the Boston-New York route made possible prompt connection with Western mail.

Our next step in air mail development has a much bigger prospect, because of the possibility of a direct line to the West without touching at New York. Eventually Montreal and Quebec must be added to the air route picture, with Boston as a terminal.

No one can foresee today the potential development of public airplane service. But of this we can be certain—Boston cannot possibly assume any position of leadership in the coming development unless she provides adequate facilities for the taking off and the landing of planes.

MUST BE PROVIDED

How such facilities are to be provided and by whom are incidental to the main issue. They must be provided.

When the Boston airport was built, it was excellent for its purpose. But it is altogether inadequate for the greater program ahead. Unless it is improved soon, Boston will begin to lag seriously behind in the advance of aviation.

Fortunately the needed improvement does not involve the expenditure of extravagant sums of money. removal of the air base from the convenient and readily accessible location originally selected.

All that is required is the leveling off of "made" land already acquired, the moving of hangars to spots in the field where they will not interfere with the movement of planes, proper cindering and finishing of the field and provision for adequate water and sanitary service at the airport.

Boston has much to gain by prompt and efficient action. The passenger service between this city and New York has already proved popular and convenient.

The planes now in service are limited to six passengers, although they have a capacity of ten. The limitation is due to the inadequate take-off and landing facilities at Boston airport. With the improvements contemplated, planes could depart from and arrive at the port with 20 to 30 passengers without danger.

Aviation from Boston in the future will "point" in many directions. We shall need what fliers call an "all direction" field, to enable ships to save time by heading directly for their destination, without the preliminary circling which is now necessary.

MIGHT START HERE

It is reasonable to assume that, were an adequately equipped port now available, the transoceanic fliers would choose to start from Boston, 200 miles, or two hours, nearer their goal than New York.

Boston business is justified in taking a keen and jealous interest in this problem of airport development, for the future of aviation holds forth possibilities of great industrial and commercial importance.

Looking ahead ten years we can readily imagine that rates for air service between Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, the cities farther west and south will be under the control of a Federal board, just as such rates are now regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission; that airport facilities will be fully as important a factor in the flow of business traffic as are rail and water terminal facilities today.

Boston will be fighting for her share of aerial commerce, with perhaps certain handicaps growing out of geographical location, climate and the like, which may be compared with the natural handicaps against which we have struggled under the existing transportation systems. Will not the port facilities available in Boston be an important, perhaps even a deciding, factor in the commercial struggle of the future?

Boston now has an opportunity to be forehanded and farsighted. She not only can afford to take the steps necessary to make her airport fully adequate for the developments that are inevitable, but, in my opinion, she can ill afford not to.

The expenditure of the necessary funds now may be economy; delay may well prove an extravagance beyond all present estimate of cost.

Cities and communities, like individuals and corporations, may measure their advancement by the wisdom and foresight with which they analyze and act upon problems of the future. Certainly aviation is important enough as a peace and war-time potentiality to engage the careful thought and financial support of every forward-looking community.

As yet man has scarcely begun to fly. The community which acts now to anticipate the aviation needs of the future will, I firmly believe, profit most by the inevitable benefits of flying which await the civilization of the immediate future.

GERMAN FLIER X-RAYS PLANE FOR U. S. HOP

Berlin, July 12 (A.P.)—Germany's aspirant for transatlantic flight honors, Otto Koennecke, who has just announced that he would be ready to start from Berlin for San Francisco on September 1, said today that every part of his motor was being X-rayed for possible defects.

He expects to start from the Templehofer Airfield about 2 a. m., and reach New York, with favorable conditions, between 5 and 6 o'clock of the evening of the following day. He will start from Templehofer for sentimental reasons, but as the field lies within the city, it would be impossible for him to rise above the buildings with a full load; therefore, he intends to start only partly loaded and descend at some other airdrome like Halle or Cologne, to complete loading before heading for New York.

LIGHTNING HITS PLANE 3,500 FEET UP; 3 DEAD

Winnipeg, Man., July 12 (A.P.)—Exploding in midair a hydro-airplane of the Royal Air Force burst into flames, and in four separate pieces crashed to the ground near Hilbre, Man., bringing death to three men. Flying officials believe the plane was struck by lightning, 3,500 feet in air.

The dead are: Flight Officer W. C. Weaver, pilot in charge; A. T. Hardley, photographic mechanic, and F. H. Wrong, surveyor of the Topographical Survey Branch, Ottawa. Eye-witnesses say the plane entered a heavy cloud bank and was lost to view. Soon there was a loud explosion and three bodies came hurtling through the air, followed by the separate pieces of the plane, afire like bugs rockets.

Is this an Important Question? enthusiastically Two million women say . . . "YES!"

"WHAT kind of bread shall I buy?" Is this an important question?

Is the sparkle of your children's eyes important? Your husband's energy? Your own freshness, vitality?

There is no more astounding miracle in all Nature than the body's use of food—the transformation of a prosaic plate of toast into the energy that drives a man all morning at top speed—that fans the flame of life in growing bodies into a rosy glow.

And the food that can furnish more of that energy than any other is—bread.

That is why, more and more, women are seeing to it that their families get plenty of bread—and the best bread.

And that is why a loaf richer in body-building elements—more nourishing, more appetizing—is now being served in hundreds of thousands of homes.

Different!

Not just another loaf of bread—White Rose Bread is different from any other loaf you can buy. For this bread has been perfected with the help of America's leading authorities on food and cooking.

Ordinary baking methods were discarded in baking White Rose Bread. Here is a loaf made with almost twice as much milk as many recipes call for—with the finest shortening that can be bought—with sugar of the very grade you use for table service.

Then this loaf is "slow-baked" to give it the character of the finest home-made bread.

No wonder it meets the needs of growing bodies more perfectly! No wonder it is richer in flavor—more delicious.

Everywhere mothers who want their families to have the best are now serving White Rose Bread. Begin to serve this loaf on your own table today.

White Rose Bread is baked twice every day and rushed to your grocer so that you may have a fresh loaf whenever you buy.

MAYORS TO AID IN SELECTING BEAUTIES

In order to aid the task of selecting "Miss Boston" to enter the nation-wide competition in choosing "Miss America, 1927," at the Atlantic City Pageant during the week of Sept. 6 to 10, Mayor Nichols, in cooperation with the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce, has issued invitations to the Mayors of Cambridge, Malden, Woburn, Taunton, Quincy, Brockton, Waltham, Chelsea, Lynn, Everett, Somerville and Revere to attend a luncheon at the Elks' Hotel tomorrow.

There official recognition will be given to the efforts of Boston and surrounding cities to choosing beauty representatives.

The luncheon will be given to Colonel John Noonan, who represents the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce and is in charge of this district in arousing the interest of the leading department stores and offices of Boston and vicinity.

There will be preliminary local contests from now until August, culminating in the grand climax contest about the middle of August which will decide who is to go to Atlantic City with the possibility of being crowned "Miss America, 1927" in September.

LONDON GIRL BRIDE OF ROCHESTER MAN

London, July 12.—One of the prettiest functions of the London season was the marriage today of Miss Helen French, daughter of Mrs. A. Houlston Morgan, of Kensington Court, London, and George Aldridge Whitley, son of Senator and Mrs. James L. Whitley, of Rochester, N. Y., in the fashionable church of St. Mary's Abbot's, Royal Borough of Kensington. The bride's gown was full length crinoline of white tulle and crepe marocain, beaded with pearls. She wore a pearl cap and flowing veil of white with a faint suggestion of pink. Nine bridesmaids were in attendance. The chief bridesmaid was the half-sister of the bride, Miss May Houlston Morgan.

COLUMBIA WILL STAR CONWAY TEARLE

By LOUELLA O PARSONS.

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Conway Tearle's threat to take his troubles to court and tell the judge that he has been kept out of pictures, has an unexpected sequel. Mr. Tearle is about to make a Columbia picture for Harry Cohn.

When he does star in "Temptation Island" for Columbia, he will probably not make a legal issue of his grievances. Mr. Tearle, just to refresh your memory, was receiving $3,500 weekly for his services. When offers were not as frequent, or in fact when they came not at all, Mr. Tearle decided that he was being discriminated against by the producers and it was time to take legal action.

I am not sure whether Mr. Tearle's publicity on his law suit decided Harry Cohn to engage him or whether it was just because he is a popular actor and his a following. George Seitz has been engaged to direct this South Sea "drammer."

By the by, how many of this type of story we are seeing in the movies these days. Dorothy Revier, recently chosen by Richard Barthelmess as his leading woman, will play opposite Mr. Tearle.

BUSTER KEATON, not to be outdone by Harold Lloyd, has also signed an unknown actress on a five-year contract. Buster's find is Mary Byron, aged eighteen, and she hails from Dayton, Ohio, where the only idea of movies is gleaned from fan magazines and newspapers.

Little Miss Byron's entire screen experience consists of playing as an extra in two pictures, but Buster is so confident of her ability that he has engaged her to play opposite him in "Steamboat Bill." After that, the Buster Keaton productions will hold the destiny of Miss Byron. If she is really talented she may soar to the top—if she isn't, there is always Dayton, Ohio.

'MOTHER OF NEW MESSIAH' LEFT ONLY FEW TRINKETS

London, July 12 (A.P.)—Hundreds of persons, most of them actuated by skeptical curiosity, witnessed the opening at the church house, Westminster, of what the National Laboratory of Psychical Research believes is the mysterious "Joanna Southcott" box.

Nothing whatever of sensational interest was found, although it had been hoped there might be something to throw light on the announcement of Joanna Southcott, the prophetess, who lived more than a century ago, that she was to be the "mother of a new Messiah."

The twenty-four bishops whom the prophetess prescribed should attend the opening of the box were not there, but one prelate—the Bishop of Grantham—attended.

The first thing removed from the box was a pistol, then came a variety of things, including a woman's lace nightcap, earrings, a dice box, a lottery ticket of the year 1796, a bag of coins, a diary of 1715, books and manuscripts—apparently just a collection of personal belongings kept for the sake of old associations.

THOUSAND DROWNED IN CHINESE FLOODS

Shanghai, July 12 (U.N.S.).—More than one thousand persons have been drowned and extensive losses of property, crops and cattle have been occasioned by floods in the King Holen and Helan Shan districts, following the breaking of dykes in South Anhwe, according to reports received here from Wu Hu.

Waters ten feet deep are reported devastating villages along the river.

ONLY ONE OUT OF FIVE BOYS ARE ABLE TO FLY

New York, July 12.—Four-fifths of the applicants for the army air service have to be rejected now. Referring to this in a radio address, F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, urged that the American Legion arouse the interest of young men who may possess flying ability.

Fly and No Pie!

San Francisco, July 12.—One of the hardships of flying for Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland is that dessert is taboo. He's a big fellow and takes no chances on being overweight. So Mother Maitland decided it was futile to bake him a nice apple pie for his homecoming from Hawaii.

Mill Worker Suicide

New Bedford, July 12 (A.P.).—Leonidas Tetrault, who came here three years ago from Pawtucket to work in the cotton mills, was found dead in his gas-filled kitchen today. Despondency over failure to obtain employment led him to suicide.

BYRD SAYS FUTURE OF AIRPLANE LIES IN STEADY DEVELOPMENT

SEES LIGHTER MOTORS BEING USED ON FUTURE AIRCRAFT

THE SKIES OF TOMORROW—A SURVEY OF THE PRESENT AND FUTURE OF AVIATION.

By COMMANDER R. E. BYRD.

(Copyright, 1927, by Famous Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHAPTER 8.—THE FUTURE OF THE AIRPLANE.

When the average layman thinks of the future in aviation, he probably calls to mind the fantastic pictures in some of the Sunday papers, showing the skies cluttered with great air monsters marked "New York to Bombay," traveling at tremendous speed, or hovering over an air garage atop a 200-story skyscraper. (Fortunately the artist is not called upon to draw workable plans for the power units of this imaginary craft.)

And many times we read Poesque tales of the most extraordinary air vehicles and moon rockets and what not. At present all of these things are most highly visionary and many of them are not based on scientific fact, but I l ieve most of my readers will be surprised to learn of some of the plans for superaviation now being worked out by reputable scientists.

The immediate problem upon which many engineers and theorists are working is the attainment of high speed in the less dense air of high altitudes.

Already some progress has been made on the problem of maintaining the power of the engine high in the sky. Ordinarily the rarified atmosphere decreases the powe of the engine because of the lack of oxygen to insure proper combustion. But recently this problem has been solved to some extent by a supercharger, which blows air into the engine at high pressure.

The principle of high speed at high altitudes is based, of course, upon the fact that the rarified atmosphere offers less head resistance to the forward motion of the plane. But unfortunately this same rarified atmosphere provides less "grip" for the propeller; so that it must be speeded up, again requiring more power.

So it may be that the plane of the not distant future will be provided with gear shifts, so that it can be thrown into high speed at maximum travel altitudes.

With the perfection of a propeller designed to operate at greatest efficiency in rarified atmosphere, it might be possible to attain a speed of about 400 miles an hour.

Jet Propulsion, Super-Plane Little Fantastic, Byrd Says

Some scientists vision a speed of 600 miles an hour, but their theories call for the elimination of the propeller entirely. They would substitute instead a method of jet propulsion, that is propulsion caused by reaction from the escape of explosion gasses, not entirely unlike a rocket.

The "engine" in this case would consist of an air compressor, explosion chamber, and escape apertures.

The principle is he same as that used in big guns, where the explosion sends the projectiles off into the air, only in this case the superplane would time the explosions to carry it forward with regularity, of course, the accurate control of the explosions and escaping gasses, and the direction of the plane are matters for constant study and experiment.

At present the whole thing seems a little fantastic. But we must remember that when the Wright Brothers made their first flight their experiment was also considered by most people as fantastic. Their initial flights were along a straight line and it was some time before they were able to turn and direct their craft with any degree of accuracy.

The jet propulsion super-plane, of course, is not a matter for the immediate concern of the layman, or of the practical airman, for that matter. It is a problem for the technical scientist. But lest we scoff too much, let us remember the already gigantic accomplishments of science.

There has been some talk, too, of radio power for aircraft, but if that ever becomes possible it will be a very long time hence. I understand that the successful conveyance of power by radio beam has already been performed experimentally, but actual commercial usage is another thing.

Of course, planes have already been flown, accurately directed and safely landed solely by a system of radio control. This, however, has little significance except as a military measure.

Sees Big Field for Present Day Aircraft Designers

But while the technical scientists are working on the problems of superaviation, I am content to aid in pushing forward the boundary line of accomplishments of our present day aircraft, which in themselves have enormous possibilities.

In practical construction great advances are being made constantly, not only in more efficient design, but also in materials.

We have seen aircraft grow from flimsy, cumbersome machines, able to carry no more weight than a pilot, to sturdy ships capable of lifting several times their own weight.

When an aircraft designer believes he has achieved the ultimate in efficient design, another designer comes along and betters him, and I believe, that the possibilities of improving lifting power, speed and cruising radius merely by new designs and construction refinements have not yet been exhausted.

Planes, in these days, are designed and built for specific purposes, and when commercial aviation has advanced sufficiently, they will be designed undoubtedly for particular routes.

And aeronautical engineers have an uncanny ability to forecast the exact performance of their machines by taking into account the balance and placement of parts, horsepower, weight, lifting surface, curvature of wings, and a score of other minute details which go into their calculations.

On one occasion of which I know, an accurate model was made of a proposed racing plane. The model was placed in a wind tunnel, and by these tests the speed was estimated at 219.8 miles an hour. On its first flight the completed plane showed a speed of 219.5 miles an hour.

I foresee a constant improvement in airplane efficiency because of better design. I foresee also lighter and more efficient motors. The power plant of the modern plane has already reached an extraordinary status of reliability.

Within a very short time a stalled motor will be extremely rare. After all there is nothing extraordinary in the expectation of a perfect motor.

Fuel. Yes, there is another point. I confidently expect modern chemistry to develop a fuel more efficient than gasoline, perhaps some synthetic substance which will give far more power with less weight. That would go a long way toward solving the problem of long distance flying.

So, I believe, the immediate future of the airplane lies not in any quick leaps but rather in a steady development, as in the past. Hitherto the public has been conscious only of spectacular exploits, but back of those exploits have been gradual and certain improvement in the whole field of aviation, otherwise the stunts would not have been possible.

With an awakened public interest, however, more notice will be taken of constant development. At last, I believe, aviation is being regarded not as a toy, but as a serious phase of modern life fraught with immense possibilities.

FOR AS A METHOD OF RAPID TRANSPORTATION AVIATION WILL MEAN A CONSIDERABLE LENGTHENING OF LIFE FOR MILLIONS OF PEOPLE. IF WE CAN ACCOMPLISH A TWO-DAY JOURNEY IN ONE DAY, HAVE WE NOT ADDED A WHOLE DAY TO OUR LIFE?

(THE END)

$10,000 Prize for Bermuda-New York Flight

Hamilton, Bermuda, July 12.—A non-stop flight from the Bermudas to New York, a distance of approximately 850 miles, may be the next aeronautical feat.

It was announced by the government that an appropriation of two thousand pounds ($10,000) has been voted as a prize for such a flight.

5 OCEAN FLIERS SAIL FOR HOME

Southampton, Eng., July 12 (A.P.)—Carrying back to the United States a long distance air record won on his transatlantic flight from New York to Germany, Clarence D. Chamberlain, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlin, sailed for home today on the steamship Leviathan.

The giant steamship which promises to become known as "the aviators' liner" left for Cherbourg where Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three transatlantic companions of the great monoplane "America," were to board the vessel with their plane.

To make the aviation flavor of the voyage even more distinct Fraulein Thea Rasche, Germany's only woman licensed pilot, boarded the Leviathan at Southampton with her little stunt plane.

Charles A. Levine, Chamberlin's companion on the New York-to-Germany flight, had been expected to make the run from Southampton to Cherbourg on the liner but changed his mind this morning and went back to London.

POLICEWOMEN SHOOT TWO

Chicago, July 12.—For the second time within two weeks a Chicago policewoman got her man today—with bullets.

A policewoman shot and wounded a man after he tried to break away following his arrest for annoying women, and Policewoman Alice McCarthy shot and wounded a 16-year-old youth suspected of stealing an automobile.

The boy, Herman Zehnder, tried to run when she questioned him after finding him trying to start an automobile, and the policewoman, drawing a tiny pistol from a vanity bag, shot him in the leg.

CHANEY WINS NEW HONORS AT STATE

The tinsel and glamor of a circus—and the sinister shadows of the underworld—these are the two extremes in Lon Chaney's latest and most startling contribution to the drama of the screen. "The Unknown," Chaney's new picture, is a thriller, a mystery, and a charmingly human love story all in one.

Chaney plays an armless sideshow freak, using his feet as his hands in all the ways the human hands can be used—a thing in itself that demanded months of practice. He throws knives, fires rifles and does other tricks before an audience in his "act"—and, in his private life, eats, drinks, smokes—and even shaves, with his feet.

Jean Crawford

The story is a grim mystery tale, through which, like a golden thread, runs a delicate romance and a remarkable story of sacrifice. Chaney's chief companion in the narrative is a dancer in the circus, is admirably played by Joan Crawford, while the role of Malabar, the strong man, is handled by Norman Kerry.

On the stage Phil Spitalny and his boys continue to be the principal attraction and are assisted by Olivette, an eccentric dancer, one of the featured players with "Queen High" during its Boston run.

Continuing Shows

COLONIAL—"Twinkle, Twinkle." Just one of those spirited Summer affairs made up of dancing girls and vociferous comedians.

PARK—"The Cat and the Canary." The final week of what has turned out to be the spookiest spook show of the year.

TREMONT—"The King of Kings." Biblical photodrama based on the inspiring life of Christ.

Norumbega Park

The open air circus at Norumbega Park is this week featuring the Aeroplane Girls, a daring act in which two dainty maidens indulge in sensational acrobatics high above the spectators. There are other free acts, including vaudeville numbers and a film comedy.

TILLIE MOVES INTO LOEW'S ORPHEUM

That familiar heroine of the comic strip, "Tillie the Toiler," is brought to life with hilarious effect by Marion Davies in a film of that title at Loew's Orpheum Theatre. As the frivolous stenographer in Mr. Simpkins' office, Miss Davies is given ample opportunity to display her ability as a screen comedienne. She handles her part exceedingly well with the result that "Tillie the Toiler" is very amusing throughout.

Matt Moore plays Mac, the office drudge and Tillie's best friend during blissful lunch hours. George K. Arthur is seen as Mr. Whipple, Gertrude Short is Bubbles, the stenographer in the office next door, and Clare McDowell makes a very fine Mrs. Jones.

The Orpheum variety bill is topped by the comic preacher, Joe Browning, who offers a humorous sermon on timely topics. Next of importance is the Wilson Sisters' revue, a music and dance production, featuring Joe Browning, Jr., Pincus Leff and Carol Margot.

Billy Kelly, Warren Jackson and Dolores Griffin are seen in an entertaining number called "Oh May," while other acts are the Great Maurice, card manipulator; Fay and Milliken, in a musical turn, and Togan and Geneva, in character impersonations.

BOY SHOT, HUNT GIRL IN BREAK

Lawrence, July 12—Police Inspectors Morrissey and Kelleher, accompanied by Sheriff Fred Chrysler of Salem, N. H., are searching the woods and camps around Shallow Lake in Salem for the girl companion of Raymond E. Trudeau, Lawrence youth shot early today while alleged to have been attempting to break into the store of S. A. Boylan.

Trudeau lies in Lawrence General Hospital with thirty-five pieces of buckshot in his body, while a policeman guards his cot. The girl, whose name the wounded youth gave to the police, is said to be a young married Lawrence woman.

When apprehended police say she will be held as a principal with Trudeau in the attempted robbery.

Trudeau, who is twenty-two and lives in Haverhill street, according to the police, confessed to a store break last week and the larceny of an automobile. He was shot by Boylan, who runs a general store at the northern end of Shadow Lake, when he refused to comply with Boylan's order to "halt."

Boylan told police that last week his store was broken into and merchandise stolen. Believing that the thief would return, he hid for several nights in some bushes near the store.

FOG DELAYS LANDING OF RETURNING TENNIS STARS

New York, July 12 (A.P.)—A heavy fog blanketing the coast from New Jersey to New England delayed four incoming ocean liners today and slowed down harbor traffic. The Majestic, due at her pier at 8:30 a.m., hung off Ambrose Light, delaying debarkation of her 900 passengers, among whom were the returning tennis stars, William T. Tilden, Francis T. Hunter and Molla Mallory.

some young woman accused of "attacking" religion. The lady, a writer, says in her latest novel: "Religion is more harmful than opium, all prophets are charlatans."

When Turkish "freedom" is older, this young woman and others will know that the wise thing to do is to let people read, write, talk and think as they choose, as long as individuals are not attacked.

The Head of the true religion, which each has a right to select for himself, in this country, is presumably able to take care of unbelievers, all in His good time. He does not need any earthly help surely.

Tolstoi, son of a great man who was usually wrong, is wrong twice in one interview, but wrong in an interesting way.

The real Tolstoi preached nonresistance, which never gets you anywhere. His son, Count Leo, says flying from Europe to America, East to West, will never be a success, because the earth moves the other way, from West to East. Which is nonsense.

His other statement, that men will live to be centuries old, is also mistaken guessing. Death at frequent intervals is necessary, as it is necessary to wipe a slate, often, that something new may be written.

Men undoubtedly will live to about ten times the age of reproduction, as other animals do, which would make one hundred and forty an average age for men living wisely.

That will be about the limit. If men come back, they should be glad to be made young again, by a better method than Voronoff's. If they go to stay, they should be glad to go, when the brain has become incapable of original thought.

Sixteen "habitual" criminals have been sentenced to life imprisonment in New York State under the Baumes law, and four "life candidates" await sentence. One "lifer," William Feuer, was sentenced as a "fence" for buying stolen goods from criminals. If all "fences" were sentenced to life imprisonment, on their first conviction, crime would drop seventy-five per cent. Why not try it?

Australia was shaken by an earthquake yesterday, the situation aggravated by "loud explosions," buildings badly shaken. No region has a monopoly of earthquakes. The old earth is settling down, and each little settling, usually not very serious, we call an earthquake.

Salient Points of the Bidding

West's hand is too weak for an opening bid. South does not attempt to "escape" with two Diamonds, a bid that has no place in sound Auction Bridge.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. After leading to Trick 3 Dummy comes in, probably on Command of Spades, and is essential that Dummy's one spade card, ♠2, be played. Two tricks must be won either by a second heart finesse or by ruffing both the King and Queen of Clubs, after a successful ruff and discard. Declarer has the best chance of making the contract by leading to Trick 4 the ♠2, which is won by East with the Ace, and after West has followed with the ♠3 East must lead a heart to Dummy's Queen, thus establishing the long heart. West must win

Frame-Up Chatter Precedes Every Row Sport Cynics | Sharkey Crossed Dope Refused to Wait Jack Wants Crown

By Nick Flatley

NOW THE FRAMEUP CHATTER STARTS

JOHN the barber was in great form as we stepped into the chair.

"Te... me," he squeaked, playfully jabbing a pin through the lobe of my left ear. "The real dope on this fight. There was a bird in here a while ago who claimed he talked on without waiting for a reply, why not, it's in the bag. He's a smart chap, and I get his stuff pretty straight.

He was while the scissors flickered dangerously close to various tender spots, "that Sharkey will have to lose. He says that Dempsey is the big card and will have to be in there with Tunney to get any gate.

He tells me that Sharkey will take a licking, and then Dempsey will fight Tunney for a big bunch of dough, and after that Sharkey will get a shot at the winner for his part of the frameup. It sieems reasonable, too. This guy, Rick rd, ain't anybody's sap."

John was merely repeating the chatter that is always around before the battle. There's always something of the sort. A small percentage of sport followers are cynics. To them nothing is on the level. Every big event is in the burlap, as the boys say.

Nick Flatley

These knockers aren't numerous, but they are very noisy. They hop around like sparrows, disseminating opinions. They have always "just met" somebody who was on the inside.

We have often wished to visit this mysterious "inside." It must be cluttered up with wise birds like the subway at five o'clock. You hear it mentioned here, there and everywhere. You hear it before and after big fights.

It's never wrong, although the before and after opinions may vary as widely as the price of neckties. A sample was the last Tunney scrap. Gene, according to the boys in the know, was going to be murdered. After Gene had won, the boys, the same boys had known all the time that the title was about to change ownership.

The power of this gospel of doubt was shown plainly in the recent Boston Evening American Dempsey contest. There was something sour in that row, in the belief of at least half of thousands of writers. And there was nothing more to pin the theory on than the disappointed howls of a few so-called experts who were dumfounded and crossed up when Tunney took the crown.

SHARKEY ADMITS THE FIGHT IS IN—FOR HIM. HE THINKS HE WILL DO THE TIXING.

The [illegible]

SHARKEY REFUSED TO WAIT FOR GLORY

THERE are a thousand reasons that might be adduced to show why a fight like the next big one would have to be on the level. Only one is necessary—Jack Sharkey.

That is one man has hammered his way up through the heavyweights by sheer force of ability. His rise has been rapid for the schedule.

He [illegible] himself into the New York arenas, and was started up against Harry Wills. Medals Wills was too tough for any of the big boys, and it was generally supposed that he would knock the precocious young Sharkey right out of the picture.

That was a lesson supposed to teach the ex-gob to realize where he belonged. He polished off the Senegambian threat, and then they had to give him his chance. He didn't pick any soft spots.

James Maloney of South Boston shot across the New York sky. He flattened various aspirants for glory, and looked like a tough customer. So Sharkey was matched with him. When Jack gleefully accepted that one, they said to get high him down.

He was sure a set-up, and should the fight was killed as an attraction to anyone, and if Sharkey hadn't been insistent, it would have been called off.

But, boarded to find at the ringside. He admitted that he was wrong, to be sure. Maloney had the Limit at. He took New York by storm with a succession of knockouts. [illegible] another Dempsey surging [illegible]

JACK CAN BE CROESUS AND KNOWS IT

DEMPSEY was listed to upholster a couple of setups and thereby win his way back to a shot at Tunney. Sharkey showed so much that the former Tiger had no fight him, or remain in the shadows where dejected champions are [illegible] days.

Young Mister Sharkey has enough money now to be independent for life. He will get another great chunk in the Dempsey battle, win or lose. He thinks he can lick Dempsey and Tunney, and nobody can tell him differently. He will go in this next scuffle with everything he has, and as one of those who catched him carve Jimmy Maloney, we're here to say that's plenty.

The real Dempsey has yet to [illegible] have demolished the present Sharkey. The Dempsey [illegible] would have a chance. The fight will be on the level because Jack Sharkey can see a few millions in it, over the [illegible]

He'd be a [illegible] to fall [illegible] opponent to the effect that he can get it and he wants it. And Jack Sharkey isn't no part of a sap. If he has the stuff in it beat Dempsey.

JIM JEFFRIES PICKS SHARKEY TO WIN BOUT

Burbank, Cal., July 12—James J. Jeffries, ex-boilermaker, ex-boxer and present Burbank barley baron, offered a few remarks today on the coming Dempsey-Sharkey heavyweight explosion.

"I hard [illegible] who'll win a pot opened with a pair of jacks," he grinned, "but I lean toward Sharkey [illegible] say it into the thirties and he's going. I guess don't [illegible] with age, like whiskey."

[illegible] "They tell me Dempsey won't counten. If he can't [illegible] he can't fight for him. I never saw Dempsey in the ring, but I know Tommy Gibbons well—and I [illegible] couldn't do anything with Tommy at Shelby when Tommy was slipping and Dempsey was going good. Then along came Tunney, another fast, shifty fellow, and he cut Dempsey [illegible]

"If Sharkey stops Dempsey he'll get his shot at Tunney—then what? Jeffries was asked.

"I don't know. Sharkey and Tun-

SARAH PALFREY SOLE SURVIVOR OF FAMILY

Providence, July 12 (A.P.)—Four Boston players advanced to the fourth round in the women's singles division of the State tennis championship on the Agawam Hunt course today.

Miss Marjorie Morrill eliminated Miss Eleanor Holton, 6—1, 6—2. Miss Margaret Paine put out Miss Polly Palfrey, 6—1, 6—3. Miss Lucretia Bright defeated Miss Lee Palfrey, 6—1, 6—3, and Mrs. J. D. Pendleton advanced at the expense of Miss Marion Palfrey, 6—0, 6—2.

It was a member of the Palfrey clan all right. This is Sarah Palfrey Cooke, champion who conquered Helen Chu [illegible] 6—1, 6—1 in a second round encounter.

Miss Marion Pendleton brought the Wilmington, Del., former national double champion, arrived this morning and went into action in a second round match with Miss Beryl Robinson of Bermuda, singles champion of that island. The veteran achieved a 6—1, 6—1 victory in one of the feature matches, the match being much closer than the score indicates.

JACK DEMPSEY Tells of Comeback

"I'm No Hollow Shell," Says Dempsey ---Asserts He Will Make Critics Eat Words When He Meets Sharkey

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 12.—This "hollow shell" thing is beginning to provide me with a lot of laughs.

The experts who have bounced in and out of my camp all have given me the "look over" and have stated that I "look good on the surface," but immediately thereafter have made wise cracks about "you can't tell by surface conditions; it's what is underneath what counts." Of course, it's what is underneath what counts.

I don't profess to have any technical knowledge of medicine, nor the symptoms of illness and all that, but common sense seems to dictate that if a [illegible] is sick inwardly, and if his organs are not functioning correctly, that his condition shows on the outside.

When I was training for Tommy Gibbons in Great Falls, four years ago I wasn't right at any time—really right. And it didn't take any student of medicine to tell that. It showed in my workouts and it showed in my face. I didn't have any healthy look, and furthermore, I had no speed and no stamina in my training camp days.

WHEN I was training for Tunney I went along alright for the first few weeks, but after that the [illegible] [illegible] and I couldn't get [illegible] I was constantly [illegible] what I saw before me in the mirror. I was [illegible] and weak, and was the effect was noticeable outwardly.

So it would seem that I am the sort of fellow who shows outwardly whether he is all right inwardly—not. But there are experts close around to my camp [illegible] [illegible] I look good and [illegible] and say that [illegible] of me. I don't count. You can't tell [illegible] things as we [illegible]

BLAKE WILL HURL FOR CUBS

Sheriff to Oppose Joe Genewich in First Game Between Tribe and League Leaders

SHERIFF FRED BLAKE will try to arrest the progress of the Braves at the Wigwam today when he bears down against the Tribe for the Chicago Cubs in the opening game of the series. The Sheriff is not the top prima donna of the Gob hurling staff by any manner of means, but Manager Joe M. Carthy believes he's good enough to take the Braves into custody.

The sensational manner in which the Cubs are showing the way in the National League race has the fans interested. That Joe McCarthy, whose only claim to manufacturing fame was a too-set floor in the Beanery Lunch and a four years' lease, can step into the big league and in the two seasons, present a team that is outstepping the Dizzy Dean, the little Celt in the Mississippi brigade of George Wright, of 1874 Braves' fame.

McCARTHY has taken his bunch of the Chicago players and made them believe they are world beaters. He has the boys hustling when such petty tilts as Pittsburgh, Boston and the Giants are batting his kept the Cubs out in the cold. Add to these tussles the consecutive licking of the Braves and McCarthy has not a team to cheer for that may be a contender with the Cubs. The gameness of the Cubs was proved right in our very midst when they knocked off the two Manhattan games against the Braves, one going 22 innings and the other 18 innings in the same series.

The Cubs are taking the fight the other team method. Hack Wilson, this powerful hitter is out of the game with a strained side. The loss of Wilson at this time is bound to have a serious effect on the Chicago machine. This chunky fellow has developed a habit of busting in ball games every now and then with a home run smash. During Wilson's absence Cliff Heathcote will play center. Cliff is nothing to rave about in the out field, but he's a good getter in the outfield.

THE recent deal which brought Hal Carlson to the Cubs proved that Manager McCarthy was passing up no chance to strengthen, even though he has to lose a popular player in the process. When Carlson came to the Cubs pioneer Tony Kaufman and Outfielder Jimmy Cooney were sent to the Phils. Cooney was very popular in Chicago because of his brilliant field ing. But McCarthy realized that he needed one more steady pitcher and Jimmy had to go in the deal to get him.

FRANK HOGAN will be behind the bat for the Braves against the Cubs today.

38 ROUNDS AT FORT BANKS

In addition to 38 rounds of boxing offered the fans at Fort Banks next Thursday evening, Captain Lourie, head of the athletic committee, includes a band contest with the Fort Banks Military Band of 40 pieces. There is also free parking space for cars with attendants standing guard over the machines, which precludes any danger of theft or other depredations.

There will be three eight-round and two six-round bouts, in which the following leather pushers will appear: Ray Dereslers of Nashua, N. H., making his first appearance in this section, will oppose Harry Janes of the U. S. S. Florida, in the feature bout at 128 pounds. In another eight-rounder in the 142-pound class, Joe Goss, M. N. G., will try to stop the winning streak of Johnny Packer of Nashua, who won his last bout at the fort by a kayo.

The other eight will bring out Tommy Quinn of Somerville vs. Billy Chams of the M. N. G., at 130 pounds.

There will be two sixes between Eddie Riley of the Coast Guard and Dan Cronin, a new heavyweight arrival from County Cork, Ireland, and Tony Sabielle of Worcester and Ryan or Ryan of the U. S. S. Southport, at 124 pounds.

She tried not to think. Her heart forced out the question. "But if she needs you so? Mark, if she is blind—"

He winced with the remembered touch of Claire's fingers fluttering so light and tender on his face, with her dear voice near: "Mark—dear Mark, how I long to see you once again!"

The new stroke hit him. He murmured, "Nothing. Only I like what I do, and I see it is wrong!"

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at sometime in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

Amazing Relief in 5 Minutes or Money Back

Get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil with the understanding that if it does not put an end to the pain and soreness and do away with all offensive odors your money will be promptly returned.

Don't worry about how long you've been troubled or how many other preparations you have tried. This powerful, penetrating oil is one preparation that will help to make your painful, aching feet so healthy and free from all soreness and distress that you'll be able to go anywhere and do anything in absolute foot comfort.

So marvelously powerful is Moone's Emerald Oil that thousands have found it gives wonderful results in the treatment of dangerous swollen or varicose veins. All druggists are selling lots of it, many any more; you have to "ease" him into it, as you do into his evening clothes, and make it seem as little like a harness as possible.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system, without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda, and 1875.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy, among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

A Debt WE Owe

Every One of Us!

When Patrolman Harris B. MacInnes followed two suspects into a Charlestown blind alley, last Sunday week, he acted on behalf of every one of us.

"The bullet that killed MacInnes," each of us may very well say to himself, "was fired at ME."

Harris MacInnes was not only a brave but an HONEST policeman.

He died almost penniless. An hour before his murder he was telling a brother officer of his plan to invest in a new mouthpiece for a musical instrument, "when I can afford it." He had seen the object he wanted in a pawnshop window. The price was ONE DOLLAR.

He lived with his wife and an eleven-year-old daughter in a rented apartment in West Roxbury. A considerable part of his earnings over a period of years had been paid out to surgeons. Funeral expenses and immediate necessities of his little home have absorbed quite one-half of the $1,000 paid to his widow by the Police Relief Association.

Police Commissioner Wilson suggests that the men of the Police Department may desire to help Mrs. MacInnes and her little girl and an enabling order has been sent to the station houses by Superintendent Crowley.

The Governor of the Commonwealth, through his prompt and very generous gift of Two Hundred Dollars, has said that HE disagrees with the Commissioner.

Governor Fuller's check says many other things, to be sure. It testifies to one brave public servant's high regard for the supreme bravery of another. It shows that His Excellency's heart is in the right place, as all of us know it has been, always. But loudest of all it says:

"You mean well, Mr. Police Commissioner, but really we can't have this sort of thing. Harris MacInnes died for me, for every one of us, for John J. Citizen and Mrs. Citizen and all the little Citizens, in every home in this great city.

"I am not going to stand by and see MY obligation carried by the other brave men of the Boston Police Department, and neither is any other thoughtful citizen. Enclosed please find my gift for Mrs. MacInnes and Dorothy. Send it to them with my truest sympathy and best love and be assured that hundreds and maybe thousands of other citizens will be glad to add their contributions, each according to his means."

That is our Governor's good opinion of his fellow citizens and it can scarce be in any one's heart to tell Mr. Fuller he has made a mistake. He hasn't.

Do it now, while you think of it. Hand your Harris B. MacInnes gift to the officer on the beat, leave it at the nearest station house, or mail it to Deputy Superintendent of Police Thomas C. Evans.

Not EASY, So UGLY

Grace and EASE Are in All REAL Beauty

THIS IS SALLY RAND "DANCING."

This fair creature, with the best of intentions, is torturing herself under the impression that she is "dancing." She is beautiful in repose, of course, and very beautiful when really DANCING.

But, men and women, remember one thing as long as you live:

THERE IS NO BEAUTY WITHOUT EASE AND GRACE.

When there is strain, violent effort, forcing of the body, or the voice, there cannot be beauty. Strain and beauty do not go together.

The world has seen thousands of women "toe dancing" using a step called pointage, balancing the body on the tip of the toe, the instep bent forward. More than ninety-nine per cent. of all toe dancing is atrociously ugly, because it is not done EASILY.

The greatest dancer that ever lived in modern times was Taglioni, the marvelous Italian, whom your grandfather may have seen.

She floated around the stage on the tips of her toes as gracefully, lightly and easily as thistle down floating on the wind.

She was a really great dancer, the greatest of a century,

WHAT MAKES GREAT MEN OF HISTORY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

VERY few of the great ones of earth can stand close inspection. They need to be regarded at some distance, either in time or space, for us to realize their greatness.

The height of the high Sierras never becomes apparent to us until at such distance they overtower the hills about them. So, as time recedes the great qualities of great men come out more and more.

Therefore we resent the attempt to scrutinize them too closely. We do not like Mr. Froude's chatter about Thomas Carlyle. We prefer to regard the old literary hero on his pedestal from a distance.

Tradition has built up many pictures of Washington and Lincoln and these enlarge with time. Of course these men were human, and it may do us good to realize that.

During the past months numerous volumes have appeared purporting to "humanize" great men and destroy the pedestal upon which they stand.

Washington and Gladstone and Franklin and others have met with such treatment. Lincoln remains untouched. Nor has any attempt been made to write such a biography.

There is something worth thinking about in that fact.

Of all the great men of history, he was the least aristocratic. He always stood with his feet on the ground.

He knew he was homely and didn't try to get around the fact. He never gave any encouragement to anyone who tried to make him seem what he was not. It is said he wrote under the author's name in a laudatory biography of himself "The Premium Liar of History."

There is no point in trying to puncture the vanities of a man who has none, or trying to expose what the individual frankly admits himself.

So Lincoln's greatness has stood aloof, because it was a greatness based upon humbleness, the sincerity and the strength of frankness.

"A great man," says Emerson, "is always willing to be little."

When Lincoln had been President for a year and a half, one of his generals gave this description of him:

"A man irresolute, but of honest intentions; a poor white in a slave State among aristocrats; kind in spirit and not envious, and anxious for approval; without the large mind necessary to grasp great questions; uncertain of himself and in many things ready to lean too much on others."

This is the usual method. During the hero's lifetime what he hasn't is stressed; after his death what he has is spoken of. Lincoln was able to see himself as he was, was honest enough to admit what he was, stood upon the solid earth of frankness and thus disarmed those who later seek to capitalize upon the weaknesses of great men.

BOSTON DAY by DAY

MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE: a lunch room: "Epicurean Lunch. No Dogs Allowed." A little further along, a theatre: Calvin Coolidge flashes on, great applause.

Then JACK SHARKEY flashes on, great applause and lasting applause.

In same block a telephone booth with the window glass missing. No, on second inspection, the window was clean.

Always something new.

Along ATLANTIC AVENUE, where the fish express comes in, are some varied sights. A variety store in the vicinity of State street and Atlantic avenue sells food, fishermen's equipment, magazines and books. Texts on steam engineering, Bibles and histories are sold. On the rack in front hang the "Literary Digest," "Paris Nights," "Art Students," "Follies," "Better Homes and Gardens," and a worn copy of "Ancient Mercury."

The sailors, who live all their lives on the water, buy "Better Homes and Gardens."

On the waterfront are sold many copies of "physical health" magazines. The splendid, hearty physique of those fishermen, able seamen, and skippers is a tradition. Yet, "health" magazines sell in as great numbers as do any other class of magazine.

• • •

Fishing from freight cars is not common, but one boy was doing it next to the banana boats. The fact that a customs guard is at the wharf entrance makes it all the more fun to get in and steal aboard the railroad barge to try to fish. We did not see anyone with a captured fish.

Standing in front of a store on TREMONT STREET for five minutes we counted 131 women pass us, fifty-three of them wore or had fur pieces around the neck. Even those who were escorted by men had to carry their own coats, but none of the men seemed to have unnecessary wraps. It was 2:35 P. M. and hot!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

EDNA wants to know if it's all right to have her face lifted. Edna is thirty-four and a doctor assures her that "with just a little fixing" she would look ten years younger. That would mean a lot to Edna now, for there is a Certain Young Man.

The Gorgas Memorial Institute is interested in such problems as Edna's. This organization is of national scope and was founded by prominent doctors and laymen to prevent the needless waste of human resources through a nation-wide co-operative offensive against disease and habits that lead to disease. President Calvin Coolidge is its Honorary President.

As a needless waster of human resources, and an inflictor of 100 per cent. misery, bad beauty doctoring stands well in the lead, and the Gorgas Institute is fighting it strenuously.

Plastic surgeons—yes, we have them. And some of them are very good. Those who are good can work miracles with wilted and deformed faces But such work calls for the highest skill and most delicate treatment. And is necessarily most expensive.

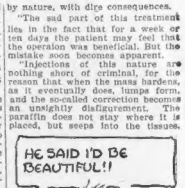
For every reliable surgeon there are hundreds of fakers and quacks who prey upon the sensitiveness and vanity of human nature at "cut rates." The agony, deformity and death which are caused by such men are appalling.

One "beauty doctor" tells Edna that he can give her a "paraffin injection" that will make her look sixteen. Here is what Doctor Joseph Sadlan has to say about such injections:

"One of the most common practices among the self-styled beauty specialists is the injection of paraffin or other foreign substances under the skin for the purpose of filling hollows in the neck or cheeks and to eradicate wrinkles. They also inject this melted wax under the skin of the nose to fill in a hollow and produce the straight bridge desired by nature, with dire consequences.

"The sad part of this treatment lies in the fact that for a week or ten days the patient may feel that the operation was beneficial. But the mistake soon becomes apparent.

"Injections of this nature are nothing short of criminal, for the reason that when the mass hardens, as it eventually does, lumps form, and the so-called correction becomes an unsightly disfigurement. The paraffin does not stay where it is placed, but seeps into the tissues.



Nature, rebelling and trying to throw off this foreign substance, sets up an inflamation in the surrounding tissues. Then the patient makes the discovery that the wax placed, let us say in the cheek, has seeped to the edge of the jaw bone, where it remains an unsightly lump."

And those are the least of the horrors. Ask your manicurist to tell you the secrets of the padded cells into which women are locked after their faces have been treated with acid in order that they may grow new "baby skin"—those padded cells through which their screams of agony cannot pass.

Look out for bootleg beauty!

Not EASY, So UGLY

because everything she did was done EASILY.

Whether you dance, recite, play, WHATEVER YOU DO, endeavor first of all to include EASE. Without ease there can be no GRACE, and without grace there is no BEAUTY.

All modern dancing of this style, jerking the body against the laws of nature, turning backward, jumping, squirming—all that is not DANCING, and it is not beauty, it is GYMNASTICS, and second rate gymnastics.

Grace and ease, especially in women, make beauty real.

That's one reason why modern painted faces are so hideous, they are so VIOLENT.
